

Parent Involvement can also be done from home.... Examples may include, but are not limited to, cutting for a class, decorating a class display, tracing repetitive patterns, providing feedback on classroom worksheets, (all grading for grade books to be completed by the teacher)other inventive stuff.....

We would like to reiterate that parental involvement can also be from home, and is especially true for parents who do not have child care for non-school age children. If we get them involved EARLY and often.....they may continue! This may also assist parents who would like to volunteer without the resources for the initial outlay required for fingerprints and the TB test.

Directions:

1. Fill out the school name.
2. Have the teacher or principal fill out the date and the name of the project they are asking the parent to do.
3. The parent takes home the appointed task to do.
4. The parent brings back the task with their number of hours spent on the assigned project.
5. The teacher/parent signature that they indeed spent that number of hours.
6. It is recommended that the parent keep the chart....they can then assist in multiple classrooms on one sheet. Additionally, it places the responsibility on the parent, rather than the school, while they are in the process of acquiring the 20 hours needed for a volunteer reimbursement.
7. The record can then be submitted for the reimbursement with the other receipts as originally requested.
8. The answer is no to "Can I submit this and then get "up-front" money to get my fingerprints and TB?". This is because we need the receipts for accounting to be able to process the request.
